MASSACHUSETTS AQUATIC STARS AMONG FAVORITES IN TODAY'S SWIM FOR $40,000 PURSES FROM CATALINA ISLAND TO CALIFORNIA

150 START CATALINA ISLAND SWIM IN FOG
The Isthmus, Santa Catalina Island, Jan. 15 (A.P.)—A heavy fog lay over the San Pedro channel, separating the Isle of Santa Catalina from the southern California mainland today when nearly 150 swimmers gathered at their designated places on the beach here and gazed toward the mainland, 22 miles away, which will be their goal when a pistol shot at 11 o'clock sends them away in the Wrigley ocean marathon.

BAY STATE SWIMMERS FAVORED IN BETTING FOR CATALINA PURSE

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Cal., Jan. 15.—The shrouding waters of Catalina Channel today met the challenge of more than 100 of the world's best swimmers as they awaited the crack of the gun at the start of William Wrigley's $40,000 deep sea derby—the Catalina Island to California swim.

The start was scheduled for 11 o'clock (8 o'clock Boston time) with five Bay State swimmers in line. Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass., and Charles Foth of Boston, are backed heavily in the betting to win.

The sands of the Isthmus, on the northeastern edge of the island, were checked with armed-off piles of beach from which each contestant was assigned to plunge into the churning waters in the marathon race.

HURT WHEN CAR RUNS WILD ON BUNKER HILL

A runaway flatcar, hurtling down Bunker Hill street, Charlie town, with nobody aboard to check the mad flight, sent traffic scattering for safety today in the vicinity of Sullivan square.

Locking striding in the rails, the runaway sped into Main street, crossed a railroad viaduct and before reaching the crowded terminal station bumped one auto truck and then spattered another against an "X" upright, severely injuring one man.

FILM COMEDIAN UNDER CARE OF DOCTORS AND IS KEPT IN SECLUSION

New York, Jan. 15 (I.N.S.)—Charlie Chaplin collapsed today as a result of worry over his wife's divorce suit and the harassment of reporters.

He was confined to bed at the home of his legal advisor, Nathan Burkan, and is under the care of a doctor, Burkan said.

Chaplin, always temperamental, has been brooding over his wife's charges and the spectre of possible loss of his fortune and livelihood, it was said.

Added to this has been the meeting of hundreds of reporters in the past few days and the strain of a trip across the continent.

TRY TO SAVE N.E. INDUSTRY FROM TAX RUIN

Attempting to save New England's industries from ruin because of excessive taxation, Philip Nichols, Boston tax expert and chairman of the Massachusetts Taxpayers' Conference, is making a drive toward correcting the evil of over-increasing levies. Mr. Nichols' latest argument for reduction was made at the Springfield house of the New England Association of Commercial Executives.

Mr. Nichols urged the organization of taxpayers' associations such as those in several of the western states, as the best means of conducting New England's "unsound" tax policy and "which threatens to ruin her manufacturing cities and towns."

Worcester, Jan. 15—A thief, who could qualify in a championship short-cut contest, hurled a brick through the jewelry shop at No. 88 Front street. He stole nine trays of rings valued at $600. One earring was released by the police after before police arrived he had escaped.

WOMEN ARMED TO FIGHT OFF 'GORILLA'

Providence, Jan. 15—The specter of "The Gorilla," or Felix Lemaire, the sixteen-year-old hooded burglar and escaped convict, is still hanging over Providence and towns and cities within a radius of fifty miles. Despite the fact that every police officer and deputy sheriff in this section of the state has been on a hunt for "The Gorilla," he is still at large.

During the day hundreds of telephone calls poured into the police headquarters at Providence and neighboring communities, and which came from persons who were certain that they had seen the fugitive. People's murmurs out of town calls, police are confident "The Gorilla" is either in the city proper or heading here, because of his acquaintance with numerous office buildings and garages from which he may plan to get a change of clothing and money to make his flight from the city.

Plain clothes men, special officers and the regular patrolmen have already spread their net in the hope of trapping "The Gorilla" in his desperate efforts to get clothing and money. DEATH PENALTY IS TERMED 'DISGRACE'

NOT A DETERRENT OF CRIME, SAYS PRATT

"Only God, the giver of life, should have the right to take it," said Representative C. F. Nelson Pratt of Saugus, who has just filed a bill in the House to abolish capital punishment. Mr. Pratt says he is firmly convinced that capital punishment is not a crime deterrent. Although not prompted to file his bill by the recent triple execution of the Waltham criminals, Representative Pratt says he believes he has filed it at a psychological time for legislative action while the executions are still fresh in the minds of the people.

Mr. Pratt said: "My reason for filing a bill to abolish capital punishment in Massachusetts is because I believe that, in a highly civilized State, capital punishment does not serve as a deterrent, although admitting that the question is open to considerable doubt. For that reason I feel that it is a subject to which the present session of the Legislature should give serious consideration."

IMPRESSED BY HORROR
"My action is not prompted by the recent triple execution of the so-called 'barbaric bandits.' I have been opposed to the death penalty for many years. I believe this is the psychological time to bring the matter up for legislative action, while the subject is still fresh in the minds of the people."

"No one who followed the newspaper accounts of the recent triple execution at Charlestown could fail to be impressed by the horror of the whole situation. While I believe stringent action should be taken to check the crime wave which has spread throughout the entire country, I also believe that capital punishment is not the remedy. Proof of that contention is that crime has not been checked in the States where capital punishment prevails."

"LEGALIZED MURDER"

BOOM FOR AIRPORT IN STATE HOUSE BILLS

Ambitious plans for the opening of airline passenger service from Boston to Montreal, New York and Chicago, and for at least two trans-Atlantic flights during the present year were disclosed today at the State House with the filing of two bills relating to the future of the Boston Airport.

The first bill, C. E. Kimball, president of the Associated Industries, petitioner, calls for the setting aside of all public areas at Jeffries Point for permanent aviation use.

The second bill, filed on petition of the State aviation committee of the American Legion, asks for the creation of an unpaid special commission, consisting of one senator, two representatives and four other members, to be appointed by the Governor, for the purpose of investigating the need of a definite State aviation policy, to consider and prepare aircraft regulations not in conflict with Federal regulations, to stimulate interest in the establishment of municipal fields and to promote aviation generally in the State.

The War Department, in connection with an extension of its lease of the airport for five years, expected to be finally approved by the Governor next Wednesday, has appropriated $10,000 to help in the port's development.

Boston also gives financial assistance and, it is understood, gives assurance of further financial aid. The Colonial Air Transport, Inc., which has operated the air mail line Winter in all sorts of weather, is anxious to inaugurate trans-Atlantic passenger service from Boston to Montreal, New York and Chicago in the event that the airport is made adequate. One of the two trans-Atlantic flights from the port this year, the plans for which are well advanced, according to aviation men, will be made by Lieutenant-Commander Noel Davis.

DENIES LOVING HUSBAND

LOST ALL AFFECTION AFTER WEDDING
Mrs. Mae Dunlea, 28, told a Providence court that six months after marrying John J. Dunlea, 33, she lost affection for him. Dunlea is suing Gordon G. Vars, a Realtor, for $10,000, charging alienation.

TAX DIVIDEND SCHEME FILED BY GOODWIN

Demanding that stockholders in Massachusetts corporations be forced to pay an income tax on their dividends, Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin filed a petition with the Legislature today calling for this change in the tax law. He took this action as a spokesman for the Commonwealth Electric Association, the "union" of State employees, and associated with him in filing the petition was Elmer C. Houdiet, representing the State Business Association.

The petition asks that a 6 per cent. tax be placed on these dividends, the same amount as the tax on persons who receive dividends from corporations outside the State.

Goodwin charged that there is a smoke screen of false economy at the State House originated by "that master mind, Homer Loring, some six years ago for the purpose of creating the impression that there was money being saved at the State House."

DRIVEN OUT BY SMOKE

OIL HEATER BACKFIRED
Mrs. Sam Bell and her pet dog, Bobbie, were driven out when heavy smoke spread through the apartment house at No. 317 Charles street. Little damage was done to the apartments but the occupants spent an hour or more out in the storm until their homes were ventilated.

BLAST AT NEW PARKER HOUSE INJURES 4

James J. Dunn, a cement worker, was probably fatally burned and three others were knocked down by an explosion of chemicals today in one of the rooms of the new Parker House under construction at School and Tremont streets. The blast, occurring during a busy shopping hour, started hundreds in the vicinity and Patrolman Brooks rushed to the scene.

Observing smoke pouring from windows on the fourth floor, Brooks pulled a fire alarm, then rushed up stairs and found Dunn unconscious and the three other cement workers partly stunned.

Brooks hurried to the street and called an ambulance, which carried Dunn to the Harkmarket Hotel Hospital, where he was found to have suffered severe burns about the head and upper part of the body. His name was placed on the danger list.

Dunn, who is 35 years old and whose home is at 85 Cedar street, Roxbury, is employed by the Duffey Company of New England.

LORDLY SMOKE 'RINGER'

BOSTON-BOUND SHIP MISSING

Fears were expressed in shipping circles today for the safety of the Boston-bound steamship John W. Tracy, loaded with 4,000 tons of coal for the Metropolitan Coal Company and due to arrive in port Tuesday, the day of the big storm.

The only glimmer of hope for the ship is that, not equipped with wireless, she may have been blown far out of her course by the gale and has been unable to communicate with land.

BREAKS AWAY FROM TOW
Hurting down Bunker Hill street, Charlestown, a runaway service car of the Boston Elevated crashed into two trucks and injured one man near Sullivan square, yesterday.

COUPLE FOUND DEAD OF GAS

Side by side as they had gone through more than 25 years of life with its sorrows and its pleasures, the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Donovan were discovered today at their little home at No. 93 Haverhill street, Cambridge, victims of illuminating gas poisoning.

A policeman, breaking through a window at the request of the owner of the house, made the gruesome discovery of the tragic end of the couple today.

Mrs. George Conover had visited the home and when she was unable to gain entrance she decided to notify the owner of the property. Two copies of newspapers, for Thursday and Friday, made her suspect that something had occurred.

The owner of this property in turn notified Patrolman Anna Turcotte, and he broke through a window to enter the building. The husband and wife were in bed. A gas jet on the wall was open. The windows were closed.

PILED UP IN WRECKAGE

The truck hit by the car at the foot of the hill was loaded with bags of coke, which was scattered over the street. The car was derailed when it hit truck.

VARIETES GATHER THE DRAMA'S BEST

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

UPON the visible operations of a more or less equivocal season in the higher arts of the theatre one might wonder whether vaudeville is as dead as the mourners have decided or whether the legitimate theatre, often panting for breath, is as sound as its advertising. In either event—or both—a clear conscience and an open mind might finally turn out to be the safest guide. All of which, conceivably and, perhaps, ingeniously, leads to the observation that, good or bad, weak or strong, vaudeville is raiding the legitimate stage for talent—and getting it.

ENTERTAINMENT, as taken by the average man with four dollars in his pocket and a best girl to spend it upon, is something more than a performance on any given stage. There are those who can still pay the high tax imposed to see so excellent a diversion as "Slanny." Whatever the cost, it is probably worth it. There are others who must by circumstance, take their entertainment on the go-as-you-pay plan and quietly do a little shopping. During the present season the ban varieties, as presented by the Keith-Albee interests, with occasional celebrations and other devices to coax the wary into comfortable playhouses, have raided the legitimate drama and captured many of its liveliest performers.

AS an example of this we have our own R. F. Keitz's original and as personably fitted home of ungrudging entertainment to prove an important case. Out of the legitimate theatre noted personages have moved into Washington and Mason streets. Ethel Barrymore, Jane Cowl and the tragic Nazimova have chased the Keith stage with talent too profound to be questioned; Phaedra Roberts, Grant Mitchell, Betty Blythe and Fran Ackers have held gaudy audiences spellbound; and Ernest Gladwin has this week given the patrons of vaudeville the same quality of acting that always has held him in high esteem with those who seem anxious to pay more for what the theatre has to sell. Vaudeville, it appears, during continental celebrations, is more than willing to draw upon the legitimate theatre for talent.

THE exchange, however, may not be as one-sided as it appears to be the naked eye. The legitimate stage, also, has drawn heavily upon Mr. Albee's artistic forces for its more or less lightly musical comedies. Really, it has become an even exchange of talent, for at least a half dozen shows now begging for attention on Broadway and in the provinces are depending upon the song and the dance and the lively quip torn right out of vaudeville. If vaudeville has stripped the legitimate stage of its brightest stars, the volume drama of Shubert, Erlanger, and kindred spirits also has taken its own toll from the enemy. Of these there might be mentioned Sidney Toler, recently here with "Tommy"; Louis Simon, now with "Boo Bye, Bannie"; Belle Baker, Jimmy Houser, James C. Morton and Joe Brown. The list is indefinite. However, the swappings show positive advantages in all directions.

HERO AND HEROINE IN 'MICHAEL STROGOFF'

RUSSIAN BUSINESS will prevail at the New Park next week when Ivan Mozhukin and Nelli de la Ravenna are seen in the film of this pulsing tale. From the pen of the famous author.

Gotham Girl

LOIRNE WILSON, the glamorous heroine of Luther Reed's film present, "New York" at the Metropolitan today.

VERNE FILM AT PARK

"Michael Strogoff," a picture of the celebrated Jules Verne novel, will be shown in natural colors at the Park beginning Monday night. A dramatic success for fifty years past, it possesses pungency and story agency for the demands of an extraordinary photoplay. Its principal roles are in the hands of Ivan Mozhukin and Nathalie de Kowanko.

To the avid reader of the Verne novel, this presentation means an opportunity of seeing for the first time just what a tent city of Tarzan tribesmen in all the barbaric splendor of Oriental ruses, hangings, tapestries, silent costumes, dainty girls and named warriors actually look like. True, the scene and fascinating descriptions which were one of the novel's most marked characteristics, will be missing, but, as the Japanese proverb says, "one look is as a thousand words," and the motion picture provides the nearest approach to actually possible.

ACHRON AT SYMPHONY
At the third of the Monday evening concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra on January 15, Joseph Achron, violinist and composer, will appear in both capacities, playing with the orchestra his own violin concerto, Schumann's first symphony, Walton's "Parnassus" Overture and the First Russian Rhapsody of Vaughan Williams and the other choice suggestions.

NEXT WEEK'S NEW BILLS

PLYMOUTH—"Loose Ankles," a comedy by Sam Janney. A story of middle aged women who are willing to pay for the companionship of gay young dancing gentlemen. In the cast are Ellen Dorr, Reed Brown, Jr., Charles D. Lowe, Frank Lyon, Joseph Bell, Charlotte Irwin, Clifford Dempsey, Ethel Martin and Larina Shannon. Staged and produced by Brock Pemberton.

HOLLIS—"Judy," a new musical comedy. Book and lyrics by Leo Robin; music by Charles Roubert. Jay Dorney's orchestra will occupy the pit. A story of Greenwich Village. In the cast are Frank Houston, George Meeker, Edward Allan, Lida Kane, Alice Mackenzie, Florence Everett, Redfield Clarke, James Seely, Elizabeth Mease and the Judy Jovyn Joywalkers. Staged by John Hayden. Produced by John Henry Neers.

MAJESTIC—"What Price Glory," a strenuous drama by Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson put up in cinema. A story of the World War and its miseries, with special reference to the courage and tenacity of the American marines. In the cast are Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe, Dolores del Rio, Ted McNamara, Sammy Cohen, Phyllis Haver, Lella Fenton and William V. Mong. Titles by Malcolm Stuart Boyar; directed by Raoul Walsh. A William Fox picture.

PARK—"Michael Strogoff," a picture of Jules Verne's fine old melodramatic novel of the old Russia. As a drama it was popular fifty years ago and now, for the first time, comes to the screen. Presented on a scale impossible to the limitations of the stage. Ivan Mozhukin, European film favorite, plays the title role. A Universal-Film de France picture.

ST. JAMES—(Shubert) "Silence," a melodrama by Max Marcin. First time in Boston. A drama of intrigue, rogues, tragedy and humor. Featured in the cast are Walter Gilbert, Florence Shirley, Frank Charlton and Edith Spear. Staged by Charles I. Schofield.

CASTLE SQUARE—(Stock) "The Last Warning," a mystery melodrama by Thomas Fallon. First time in Boston. Contains many novelties as well as thrills, shocks and sparkling humor. The principal roles are taken by Marvin Gordon and Margaret George.

CLEAR THE WAY FOR THE BUSHY BOS'N!

WALLACE BEERY as the merriest, manliest, funniest and most unrepentant old son-of-a-gun that ever passed a buck. Won't find him here "Old Ironsides" at the Tremont, the life of the party and the funniest old fellow in a long, long line.

Blonde Star

LAURA LA PLANTE, blonde flapper to be seen in her first star vehicle "Her Big Night" at the New Boston.

ANOTHER JOB FOR LANDIS

By CHARLOTTE IRWIN
Of "Loose Ankles" at the Plymouth. According to Paris experts, I recently read in newspapers where these experts declare kissing develops beauty, and advocates occupation instead of headbanging in public. Now I wonder just how this kissing business could be arranged in these busy United States of ours without interfering with the traffic rules of our larger cities? It certainly would be a novel idea to try, and I for one endorse it if I could just be an interested spectator from a distance. Can you imagine the congestion that would result from a pretty good kissing facial muscles on a public street? Just think of the lot it would give out ultra-modern performers to be compelled to regulate a beauty campaign of such huge proportions. For who would not want to be kissed if kissing really develops beauty? Oh, Mr. L.-D.-4, Oh, Mr. L.-D.-4, here's another job for you!

GALLAGHER IN GUEST TAKES FILM DEBUT AT 'MET'

By MOSES SMITH
Guest conductors come rarely to the concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, over whose destiny Berth Koussevitzky labors so fully and ardently. As a novel idea, Alfredo Casella, leading the power of the modernist Italian group, and man of music in general, was, therefore, the more welcome at the conductor's stand in Symphony Hall for this week's program. Once before, during St. Montez's reign, Casella conducted for part of a concert. But yesterday he had the whole program to arrange, and he made a very interesting choice. An old concerto in A minor by Vivaldi was dug up and given its first Boston performance in a dress arranged by Sam Franko. Two of Casella's own compositions were also heard here for the first time—a Partita for piano and orchestra, and an orchestral suite drawn from the ballet, "La Clara." Finally there was the Mozart piano concerto in C major.

To borrow an idea, one might say that the Mozart concerto has also been heard for the first time, even though conductors pianists have used it as a vehicle during the century and a half of its existence. For yesterday's performance was one of almost unbelievable beauty. Walter Gieseking, the soloist, more than won his spurs at his first appearance with the Boston Symphony. He justified the praise that has greeted him out among the finest of the new generation of pianists.

His technique was "burn," but he used it infrequently, only at the ends of the music. His touch for Mozart is ideal. Delicacy and the finest of shading and phrasing are the outstanding traits in his playing. And he is a musician of the first water. The orchestral accompaniment under Casella's baton matched the pianist's performance. Little wonder that the rendition brought one of the loudest ovations of the season in the hall.

FEARSOME MOMENT IN 'FLAMING FOREST'

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, got 'em if they don't look out. From the action of the film "The Flame of the Forest" at the Shubert.

Headlines written by a staff editor of the New York Mirror are substituted for subtitles to record the progress of a murder trial in "New York," the new film at the Met. Just to keep his hand in, Bill Powell is the player, and Estelle Taylor his victim.

STAGE AND SCREEN

Know Exactly What They Wanted.

Two old sailors, in part after a long cruise, rolled joyously up to the Tremont Theatre to see "Old Ironsides." Unsteadily, but safely, they maneuvered up to the box office and demanded from the surprised treasurer: "Two on the upper deck." They got them.

FILMS, PLAYFUL, PERT AND PONDEROUS, POUR UPON THE TOWN WITH THE NEW WEEK

TELLING IT TO THE MARINES in Dolores Del Rio, starring "Charmaine" in "What Price Glory." Film drama of war and all that goes with it (Majestic). Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe are the "army."

"HARK, MARK! THE LARK . . . my lady sweet, arise!" "Let us crown ourselves with rosebuds, 'ere they be withered . . ."—unspoken phrases of Lloyd Hughes to Mae Murray in "Valencia," at the State.

THE BEACONUT BRAND as you find it on the youthful labels in the Summerland—and in "College." A film of fascinat'g young ones at the Fenway. Althea Vaughn and Donald Keith are the "ones."

HIS NOSE KNOWS how it feels to be plucked by Colleen Moore, the cutest-on-phase heroine of "Twinkles" at the Olympia. Tully Marshall plays her Pa and gets all that's coming to him.

AND IN THIS CORNER, another fond two-some. Robert Frazer is the sixty-second hero in "One Hour of Love" at the Modern and Beacon and Jacqueline Logan is lovely lady.

THE SCREEN PERSONALITY

By DOLORES DEL RIO

In "What Price Glory" at the Majestic

They say I am a "screen personality," and, of course, I am thrilled beyond words. For years I have dreamed of just such a thing and now that it is a reality my emotions are uncontrolled. Naturally I enjoy the distinction of being hailed as a featured player. "Who wouldn't?" It is the next step to stardom and that is the top of the profession.

Yet, the big thrill I have experienced thus far came when I was selected to play the role of Dolores Del Rio, Charmaine, in "What Price Glory." It is, therefore, not that I am supposed to be a new screen personality, but that I, from a large field of brilliant actresses, was selected to play this important role.

When "What Price Glory" was first announced for production I visualized myself in the role of Charmaine. I knew the part well because I had seen the play several times and enjoyed it immensely. Naturally I didn't think I had a chance in a thousand to win so marvelous a part. Talk about days of unbounded joy! That's exactly what happened to me when I was informed that I was to play Charmaine, and I haven't quite gotten over this ecstatic state yet.

KOUSSEVITZKY RETURNS

After an absence of two weeks, Serge Koussevitzky will return to the conductor's stand at the regular Friday afternoon and Saturday evening concerts for this week. A new suite by Albert Roussel, the French composer, will be given in his first performance anywhere. The music, which is still in manuscript, was written especially for Mr. Koussevitzky, who is a friend of the composer. Gershwin's "Piano Concerto" and Handel's Concerto Grosso in B minor are the other two pieces on the program.

Eddie Leonard, With Satin Suits, Comes to Keith's

Of the many things that have made Eddie Leonard, famous Keith star, the most striking is his model of dressing. His wardrobe is probably the only one of its kind in existence. Any one who has seen Mr. Leonard will not soon forget the shiny satin full dress suits which he wears. He makes several changes of costume during his act and each time it is a new and different color. Red, white, black, blue, purple, green, in special shades are only a few of his colors. Each suit has a satin hat to match.

ALICE JOINS THE MODERNS

To look at golden-haired Alice MacKenzie, a principal in "Judy," the new musical comedy which opens at the Holly Monday night, no one would ever think that she had once acquired the title of the "Latin lady" of the Latin club, with a view to becoming a teacher of French in the South of France.

Yet five years ago, when she was a little girl, she was the star of the Latin club, and she thought that the ultimate stage of stardom was to be a teacher of French in the South of France.

Now, however, she is a high school girl who has something to do with it. "Alice MacKenzie" is the name of the new musical comedy which opens at the Holly Monday night.

CHEMISTS SEE FUEL APLenty FOR INDUSTRY

"We seem to be on the threshold of a period of development and change in fuel processing and utilization which promises to be one of the most interesting and important fields in both chemical and industrial research," said A. C. Field, chief chemist of the United States Bureau of Mines, today, in speaking at the symposium on gasolines at Massachusetts Institute of Technology under the auspices of the American Chemical Society.

"Another real, wide problem in connection with fuel utilization," he added, is procurement of coal used

SEK RUFFSET TO SURPRISE IN NORRIS CASE

Austin, Tex., Jan. 15.—Efforts by the defense were continued today to offset the surprise testimony elicited by the state in the murder trial of Rev. J. Frank Norris of Fort Worth.

Taking the defense visibly off its feet, Mrs. J. C. Parker, elderly grandmother, testified she had gone to see Rev. Norris on the afternoon of July 17, and had walked into the midst of the shooting of D. E. Chappie, for which the Rev. Norris is on trial on a murder indictment.

She testified she saw the Rev. Norris shoot Chappie as Chappie was leaving the study of the First Baptist church. The defense had charged Norris had killed in self-defense after threatening murder by Chappie.

Only one defense witness was put on after the state rested, with others ready for calling today.

NUNS ESCAPE CHINESE RAID IN ORPHANAGE

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.)—The Commercial Cable Company today was advised that communication with Hankow has been cut off by the interruption of all lines on the Yangtze River beyond Kiangling.

Foohow, Jan. 15 (A.P.)—A mob of students attacked the Spanish Dominican Orphanage, vicarage and church near here and drove out the nuns, abducted the Chinese orphan girls and wrecked the property.

The nuns are safe in the foreign quarter at Hankow. The Chinese sailors and priests with the exception of the nuns, fled to the harbor today. Although 40,000 Nationalist troops occupy Foohow, they did nothing to prevent the attack.

BOBBED HAIR, SHORT SKIRT, BARRED TO CHINESE GIRLS

Tientsin, Jan. 15 (A.P.)—A continuous campaign against new ideas and against the westernization of young women in particular is being waged by the authorities of Chihli province. The governor, General Chu Tsu-pu, having forbidden bobbed hair for girls, following the lead of the education commissioner, has now issued orders for girls' attire.

They must not encourage the social advances of young men, must not dance with men, must not marry except with their school graduates as a witness, must not wear dresses that expose breasts, arms or the length of the lower limbs.

15 'MIKES' TO RADIO OPERA

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.)—The most elaborate system of "pick-up" apparatus ever used will be employed by the National Broadcasting Company Friday, January 15, in sending direct from the stage the entire opera of the Chicago Civic Opera Company's production of "Faust." Broadcasting will begin between 10:30 and 11:15 p. m., Eastern time.

Fifteen or more microphones, singly or in various combinations, will reproduce all the color and vividness of the original music. Through a specially built mixing panel installed in the Chicago Auditorium.

Parts of the music, picked up by these microphones, will be sent to the "mixing" panel and balanced and combined by means of special circuits to the National Broadcasting Company's "push-in" control in New York city for distribution to stations.

EUROPE'S INFLUENZA PLAGUE REACHES PEAK

Geneva, Switzerland, Jan. 15 (A.P.)—Health experts on the staff of the League of Nations believe Europe's influenza epidemic has reached its peak. Reports to the league show that the disease is prevalent in France, Spain, Scotland, Norway, Poland, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Greece, Bulgaria, Egypt, the Netherlands and Switzerland.

Egypt had the high proportion of thirty-eight deaths in 471 cases during December; fifteen deaths are reported for that month in Scotland, and there are thirteen fatalities in Amsterdam. Halfway for a week the rate of mortality was low in Spain and Poland.

"MAN WITHOUT COUNTRY" FREED, GOES TO CANADA

Baltimore, Jan. 14 (A.P.)—Lawrence Water Shahan left Maryland Penitentiary today a man without a country. Shahan was the United States citizen who was freed if he is sent out of prison, and British authorities have promised him he will not be allowed to live in Ireland.

Shahan had the high proportion of thirty-eight deaths in 471 cases during December; fifteen deaths are reported for that month in Scotland, and there are thirteen fatalities in Amsterdam. Halfway for a week the rate of mortality was low in Spain and Poland.

GET SUSPECT IN SLAYING OF 3

Providence, Jan. 15.—Joseph Giannetti, wanted here for the triple slaying of his wife, Mrs. Lucy Giannetti, her father, Francesco Colaninno, and her uncle, Raffaele Besti, on February 21, last, is now a prisoner in the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus, O.

This information was telegraphed to Chief of Police Inspector Edward H. Fox of the Columbus police department. Chief Inspector Fox said he did not say what offense Giannetti had committed, but committed in Ohio.

On February 21 last, Giannetti, who had served a term for forgery in Ohio, was taken to the Ohio State Penitentiary, where he was held in a cell on No. 34 Cedar street to await trial.

Joseph Giannetti, who had been in the United States for three weeks before, had refused to return and then a quarrel over money started.

Giannetti grew violent and the father of five tried to eject him.

It's a Long, Long Swim From Catalina

WITHOUT WINTER WORRIES. Little Miss Peggie Wright is shown thoroughly enjoying a skate on the ice at Brae Burn. Winter holds no worries for the youngsters.

TOWARD THE RAINBOW. Mrs. Lottie Schoemmel, crack distance swimmer, plunges toward the $25,000 prize offered by William Wrigley, Jr. in the Catalina Island swim today. She is the favorite among the fair entrants.

VERSATILE TRACK STAR. Romaine Cole of Newton High School is one of the most adaptable members of the squad. He is here seen clearing a hurdle with faultless form, but he also shines at the 300-yard distance. He will surely be heard from this season.

SUNDAY SPORT BILL, sponsored by Major General Edward J. Logan, being filed with the clerk of the State Senate at the State House. Left to right, General Logan, Assistant Clerk Irving N. Hayden and Senator Gaspar B. Bacon, another of the bill's backers. Sport followers are intensely interested in the passage of this measure.

JUST COO, NOT COO-COO. This is "Coo" Thompson, center on the Fitton basketball team, which is about to make an 88-game barnstorming tour through the South to Florida. The Fittons are the New England champions and right they should be with such a sterling player as Thompson listed in the lineup. He should prove a big factor in the tour.

HE'S BECOME A GIANT. Burleigh Grimes, veteran pitcher with the Brooklyn Dodgers, has been traded to the New York Giants and will twirl this year for John McGraw. He'll be ready as soon as he ties that lacing.

THE POKER FACE PERPETUATED. The classic features of Miss Helen Wills, world renowned tennis player, have been sculptured by Haig Pailgion, San Francisco sculptor, and the work has attracted wide attention. The bust is to be later reproduced in bronze or marble. Helen can evidently sit still and pose as well as dash about the courts. (I.N.R. photo.)

Largest Water Pumping Plant

LONDON has the largest pumping plant in Europe. This new pump system handles daily 17,500,000 gallons, and this amount can be doubled in an emergency. The plant includes eighteen miles of direct primaries.

This Day in Our History

ON January 15, 1831, the first locomotive built for actual use in the United States was completed at Peter Cooper's iron works near Baltimore, Md. On its first trial trip it drew a car with directors of the line. Its name was "Best Friend."

A Misunderstood Boston Girl's Love Story

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Gay Moore and her cousin, Christine Mo, are employed in the State street house of Johnston, Baird, Gay as typists, and Christine as telephone operator. Christine is in love with Roger Farmington, whose wealth and social position appeal to her because of luxury. Stanley Baird is in love with Gay. Gay returns his love. Stan leaves home and takes a position as automobile mechanic. Stan's family disown him when they discover he has been working in such a humble position. However, Gay and Stan make plans for their wedding, which takes place in February, and after a short honeymoon, they return to the city, as Stan wants to get back to work as quickly as possible.

HIS FIRST LOVE LETTER. George Washington, avowed by the tender passion, wrote beseechingly to "Dear Robin." Love and adventure in the pictorial history of the Father of His Country. Begins on an episode in the Boston Evening American. Romance and education for everyone.

Just Like a Dream Come True

Stanley put his hand to her face and looked into her eyes. "Glad, Gay?"

Fads and Fashions

Denying Any Relationship—the few flinges of the new cloth coats and the new uniforms used hereon are totally at variance. Other animals or chipmunk like a tweed or a plaid jacket, a pair of slacks in astrakhan, fox or some other of the finer felta.

Suited to Sande Not Surly—the new uniforms are made of practical, bathing suit of wide mottle ribbon and a pair of slacks of the same suggested for Florida wear. This two-piece model is fashioned to form horizontal strips of ribbon, alternating brown and black. The two-piece suit has a wide hickory-brown belt, which is edged with a black ribbon.

Following the Family Line—small hats of flat fur are shaped to resemble the crown of the crested crowns, of the popular leopard and other similar cats. The hats are made of fur to which they are perfectly matched. Often these smart little models are lined with highly contrasting tings of leather.

Why don't you use some gum in disposing of the matters up on your desk each day?
 Your desk has pigeon holes and compartments which should be items classified.
 But you stick a paper into the desk pad, another paper in the box and forget where you put them!
 You work automatically.
 You don't sort papers in your mind.
 You should have a clear idea of where you can find data and manage when you need them.
 If you mix receipts, contracts, orders, business letters and personal correspondence you will never be able to put your hand on the paper you want.
 When you tell every one how rushed you are, there are certain kinds of mail that should be immediately considered waste paper.

PARTNERSHIP

By Eudora R. Richardson

CLARE knew they would all be happy. Her mother and grandmother were worried, and sometimes she was worried, too. But she knew that she had the approval of the people she loved. She was sure that she had made the right decision. She was sure that she was doing the right thing. She was sure that she was happy. She was sure that she was loved. She was sure that she was free. She was sure that she was whole. She was sure that she was herself. She was sure that she was home.

OUT-OF-TOWNERS

Do you put off shopping on these cold winter days just because you dread traveling around in the wind and snow?

And then, when you have spent a long time looking everywhere for that special article, you have to go home not satisfied, because you can't find it and have been half frozen all day. Then, too, it means that you have another day like it before you when you can get your courage up again, because you must find this merchandise.

This is the time when you would save yourself so much time and trouble if you would first drop a line to the WHERE-CAN-I-BUY Service of the Boston Evening American. Your letter will be answered by mail and then when you come to town you'll be able to have a real successful shopping day.

MEDBURY SAYS--

By JOHN F. MEDBURY
A divorce doesn't amount to much, but it's nice to have one in case of an argument.
THEY cost a little more than a divorce, but their money goes for a difference just a few cents make.
A WEDDING certificate stands you less than three dollars, but look at the upkeep.
DIVORCE are only intended for a certain class of people—married ones.
SINGLE men don't have this expense, but their money goes for breath of promise suits.
ONE fellow said he'd rather remain a bachelor and do his quarrel-free-lance.
WHILE the law only apprehends ninety per cent of the polygamists, the other ten per cent usually demand their own arrest for self protection.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND
In the last analysis, your success is measured, not by the number of people who admire you, but by the number of people who LOVE you.
Most women have the mistaken idea that the way to preserve love is by a jar of fruit, by clamping the lid on love.
After two long years, a love-affair doesn't need to be broken off; it just naturally goes—like middle-aged women.
No wise wife investigates her husband's life merely for traces of alcohol, these days; the wise wife of not missing anything, by investigating it also for traces of hair-dos, croquet, jumper and varnish.
One reason a man's life is so much more than a "game" is because he spends nearly three-quarters of it hunting up things—like a woman who does.
Even a man's morality and uprightness may be inspired by vanity in his desire to be known as "good and worthy."
To make an interesting conversation, a woman doesn't need to know a thing about the subject. All she needs to know is enough to compliment the man on how much HE knows about it.
Real love lives by what is called co-operation, by what is called co-operation.
